Most Modern, Shortest Stroke V8's* in any leading truck!

New Chevrolet Task-Force Trucks

Oversquare design—ultra-short stroke, smaller than the bore!

Here's the measure of a truly modern V8 engine—Chevrolet's advanced oversquare design. It means less friction . . . longer engine life!

Here are more dollar-saving reasons why new Chevrolet trucks offer you the most modern V8's* your money can buy!

MODERN 12-VOLT ELECTRICAL SYSTEM
You get double the punch for quicker starting (up to 30 percent faster cranking speed) and a hotter, fatter spark for more efficient ignition.

GAS-SAVING HIGH-COMPRESSION RATIO
With a high 7.5 to 1 compression ratio, Chevrolet's new V8 truck engines squeeze extra power—and work—out of every tankful of gas.

EXTRA-HIGH POWER PER POUND
Since these V8's deliver high power per pound of engine weight, more of the power is actually available for hauling.

Father Darkleaf

By c. h. r.

The editor for whom I was doing an article recently, gave me advice about writing. He said: "Get all the facts and that will "write itself." But, there are times when one ventures to write about something of which he knows little. That's the case today. Before we undertake to write on the subject of "money."

As far as I know, it was about 640 B. C. that the Lydians, a people of Asia Minor, began the use of coins. It was about 2,000 years later that people began dating coins. Long before metal coins were used, people used "money." I have a picture of "Indian wampum." But we go back much farther than that. Cattle were used for money in Africa, German, leather in Rome, Siam, lead in Burma, brass rods and sugar in the West Indies, etc. But if you want to get the attention of the use of money, you must refer to the Bible. It was used as the very second chapter of Genesis, verses 10, 11, 12, that mention get to telling about the land of gold. Could have been that Adam and Eve were the first prospectors and set up the original gold standard. But brass and iron are mentioned in Genesis 4:22. Tubal-Cain must have been the first gold-and-silver jeweler.

Then comes into mention Exodus 30:12, and the word "money" is used for the first time in Genesis 23:16, 17, 18, 23. They mention earrings and bracelets in Genesis 24:22.

In the ancient days, however, silver, lead, brass and other base metals, were in lumps or bars and had to be weighed out during a transaction. Gradually, there came a need to guarantee the weight of a valuable metal, and so that ancient kings caused their coins to be stamped on a chunk of silver that King So-and-So guaranteed that this piece of metal was pure silver. That moment saw the beginning of coinage. Some of these coins exist today. Then they were made in the likenesses of turtles, etc.

It is said that the first English coin was in the time of Egbert at the end of the era A. D. 765-805, while the Conqueror issued some of the gold coins. Queen Elizabeth I made a step forward by milling the coins. It is said that one John Higby, of Granby, Conn., coined the first money in this country in 1737. A set of three hammers were placed with the words: "I am good as the value me as you please."

In 1792, George Washington signed a law to establish a United States Mint. In October, 1792, the first American coins came off the press. The first imported from England in 1793. The first cents appeared in 1793. The silver dollar, half dollar and half dime were struck in 1794; in 1796, the quarter and dime. Gold coins were issued by private parties for a spell, and it took a long time to get the coin-issuing business down from a maze of curious coins to the present established pattern. It is rather amazing that there are still many very ancient coins still in the hands of collectors. Great sums for ancient coins have been paid at auctions. By and large, the value of an old coin is determined by supply, not its face value. Stamps and paper money of a similar face value and worth more to collectors' market than others of face value. Many people are disappointed when they look up the current value of an old coin and find that it is not worth much. But the fact you have them indicates others, too, have them, and they are not as scarce as you may have believed.

Community Cannery Open Saturday To Serve Patrons

At the request of patrons who are employed by the local garment factories, the Appomattox Community Cannery will be open this Saturday, August 6. There is a good possibility that the cannery will remain open on Saturdays for the rest of the month of August, providing there is a need for Saturday operation.

So far this year the cannery is having a good season, with 13,000 cans put up during the month of July. This number is the largest amount ever canned during the month of July. It is about twice the amount canned in July during the past few drought years.

The cannery, at present, is operating with one new instructor, Mr. Vernell Mitchell, and one experienced instructor, Mrs. John Tweedy. Mr. John Tweedy, former instructor, has resigned from his job in the cannery, due to his health. Mr. Tweedy supervised the canning of over a quarter millions cans of food at the cannery.

This additional time of operation is being granted by the County School Board in response to a petition presented this week from the county patrons employed by the local garment companies.

Through the efforts of Pamplin citizens and the Euritan Club, the Appomattox Telephone Company has established dial telephone service in Pamplin from the Appomattox exchange.

To initiate the service, ceremonial calls were placed last Thursday by Pamplin Mayor Richard F. Williams to Mayor C. F. James, of Appomattox, and from T. DeWitt Evans, president of the Appomattox Lions Club to past president Luther Nash of the Pamplin Ruritan Club. Mayor Williams and Mr. Nash were congratulated on the success of their efforts and those of the community in working out, with the telephone company, the many difficult economic problems attending the establishment of telephone service in a small community. The whole project was seen as a typical American venture of a free people, working together and without government aid, that all might have a greater share of comfort and social pleasure. Both Mayor James and Mr. Evans expressed the pleasure of the people of Appomattox and Pamplin that her citizens were now as close to them as their telephone.

The establishment of service in Pamplin on lines from the Appomattox exchange completes the first step of a project which calls for a separate dial exchange in Pamplin with direct long distance lines to Lynchburg and local service trunk lines to Appomattox.

The building for the new dial office has already been built and part of the dial equipment is on hand. However, inability to get the balance of the equipment from the manufacturer before April of next year makes it necessary to schedule completion of this part some time after the arrival of all apparatus needed.

To those who have waited patiently for service, Keith Schuler pointed out that Appomattox Telephone Company has footed a bill of about $150,000. for expansion in the last eight years, during which time the exchange has grown from 187 telephones to the present 755. There are still, however, over 200 families awaiting service in outlying parts of their area which the company plans to serve. Schuler stated, "We have tried to expand reasonably and as fast as sound financing would permit. Because we have done this and demonstrated our stability, a new satisfactory source of commercial financing has recently become available which will enable us to continue our growth and development of telephone service in the Appomattox and Pamplin exchanges, where ever it is economically feasible."

The names and numbers of the new telephones in Pamplin will be in the new telephone directory which comes out in October. In the meantime, it is suggested that customers cut out the add with the listings which appears in this paper and clip it in their directory.

Mr. Schuler was enthusiastic in his praise of the spirit of cooperation the company has received from Pamplin citizens and organizations. He added, "We are proud that we are now able to offer this enlarged service to the people of our area, and it is our goal to make the Appomattox telephone service the best possible."

N. C. Markets Open This Week

The 1955 sales season for flue-cured tobacco moved into North Carolina this week with the opening of eight border belt markets.

Growers and market experts were looking for a comparison of opening day prices with the $57.16 figure set by opening-day sales on the South Carolina markets last week.

Experts noted that farmers in the border area had excellent crops of flue-cured tobacco, and felt that the market would register improvement in quality of leaf over last year.

The North Carolina border markets are at Whiteville, Tabor City, Lumberton, Fayetteville, Fairmont, Fair Bluff, Calrkton and Chadbourn.

On the South Carolina opening last yeek, 47.5 per cent of the gross sales went to the flue-cured tobacco Stabilization Corporation, which purchases tobacco under the price support program.

Last year, producer sales on the eight border North Carolina markets amounted to 146,374,552 pounds at an average price of $54.29. There was a 5 per cent cut in acreage this year, but the volume is expected to increase due a better growing season.
